RESTORE GRAY HAIR
TO NATURAL COLORBy Common Garden
Sage a Simple Remedy for Dandruff, Falling,
Faded, Gray Hair

The old idea of using Sage for darkening the hair is again coming in vogue. Our grandmothers had dark, glossy hair at seventy-five, while our mothers are gray before they are fifty. Our grandmothers kept their hair soft and glossy with a "Sage Tea," which also restored the natural color. One objection to using such a preparation was the trouble of making it. This objection has been overcome by the Wyeth Chemical company of New York, who has placed on the market a superior preparation of Sage, combined with Sulphur and other valuable remedies for dandruff, itching scalp, and thin, weak, falling hair.

The beauty of the hair depends more on its rich, even shading than anything else. Don't have dry, harsh faded hair, when a simple, harmless remedy will bring back the color in a few days; and don't be tormented with dandruff, itching scalp and loose, falling hairs. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy will quickly correct these troubles, and give color, strength and beauty to your hair. Get a fifty cent bottle from your druggist today, and prove this to your own satisfaction. All druggists sell it, under guarantee that the money will be refunded if the remedy is not exactly as represented. Special Agent, A. R. McIntyre, Druggist. (Advertisement.)

HE KNEW.
"I won't play poker with that fellow any more. He's entirely too smooth. He bobbed up last night with four aces."
"What's wrong about that?"
"I had dealt him four queens."

EXCITED HIS ADMIRATION
"Well, what do you think of it?" asked the Englishman, who was showing the American the ruins of the abbey.
"Great!" he replied. "What a fine railroad station it would make if it was in good repair!" —Judge's Library.

UNCLE SAM'S BIG
RANCH IN UTAHOgden Office of the Forest Service Orders the Enclosing of 300,000
Acres and One Fence Five Miles and Another Eleven Miles Long Are to Be Built by the Forest Rangers of Southern Utah.

The perplexing problem of preventing injury to the national forests from overgrazing by cattle and horses in localities where the stock are run on the open range during the entire 12 months of the year will be overcome in an unusual manner on the Kaibab national forest, which is located in the "Arizona strip" north of the Grand Canyon of Colorado. According to District Forester Sherman, it has been found that the entire south, west and north boundaries of the Kaibab forest are practically fenced by natural barriers, consisting of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado on the south, and rimrock cliffs along Kanab creek, which forms the north and west boundaries. By closing the gaps in the cliffs with a substantial four-wire fence, and connecting the barriers thus formed with a drift fence, some forty-two miles in length, which already has been constructed across the forest, approximately 300,000 acres of national forest land, which has suffered most from overgrazing, will be entirely closed.

A careful survey of the forest boundary by the rangers shows that only five miles of fence will be required to connect the cliffs along the present boundary and completely prevent cattle and horses from entering the forest at any point along nearly 150 miles of the boundary, except where gates are provided.

The complete enclosure of the forest, however, does not entirely solve the problem, since nearly 5,000 head of the cattle and horses which are grazed upon the forest during the summer months under permit issued by the government also graze upon the lower range within the forest during the spring, fall and winter months. In order to remove the large excess of unpermitted cattle which is responsible for the present overgrazed condition of the range, all the cattle and horses within the forest would have to be counted. Such an operation is not only exceedingly expensive, but more or less injurious to the stock and to a large extent unreliable, since many of the wild cattle either can not be found in the rough brush and timbered country or escape before being caught and marked with paint or "bush" for identification after being released. Further investigation by the rangers, however, has shown that eleven miles of fence will close up the open country between the cliffs in the heads of the canyons in the interior of the forest, thus separating the range suitable for winter grazing from the higher country upon which the cattle graze during the summer months. By the construction of such a division fence between the summer and winter ranges the number of stock within the forest can be ascertained as they are forced for lack of snow and water on the winter range to drift to the higher country where grass and water are more abundant. Some fifty gates will be constructed in the boundary and division fences, and rangers will be stationed at convenient points, who will admit the stock and determine the ownership, according to the mark and brand they bear. When unpermitted stock are discovered, they will be driven outside the forest, and in this way, the total number allowed to graze upon the forest may be so regulated as to allow the range to recover from past misuse.

The construction of the boundary and division fences has been authorized by the district forester, and the necessary amount of barb wire and staples purchased and shipped to the supervisor of the Kaibab forest. The fences will be built entirely by ranger labor during the winter season, and a number of regularly appointed rangers from other forests will be sent to the Kaibab to assist in the work.

Owing to the abundance of timber on the forest, no fence posts will be necessary, since the wire can be tacked to the trees.

NEGRO RENOUNCED
BY WHITE GIRL

Chicago, Oct. 22.—The testimony of Lucille Cameron, the white girl, whose association with Jack Johnson, negro pugilist, caused an investigation by the United States authorities to ascertain if the Mann act had been violated, is said to have been the most direct the federal grand jury has been asked to obtain. It is said that the girl, who has turned against the negro, made highly damaging statements.

At the close of her hearing the girl became hysterical. She will appear before the jury again today. Yesterday afternoon she yielded to the pleadings of her mother, Mrs. Cameron-Falconet, of Minneapolis, and consented to return to her home, renouncing the negro.

The morning session of the jury was occupied with stories of Mrs. Cameron-Falconet, "Jack" Curley, fight promoter; Hank Kenny, Johnson's former sparring partner, and F. E. Delmon, a white saloonkeeper.

During the afternoon an ineffectual effort was made by Robert E. Cantwell, Johnson's attorney, to obtain an interview with Miss Cameron. Previously Cantwell appeared before Federal Judge Landis, also of the United States court, and made a motion that her bond be reduced. This was denied by Judge Landis.

The city council, aroused by the reports of his "depraved, degraded and immoral" conduct, and of the slurs which he has cast on Chicago womanhood, last night unanimously adopted a resolution recommending that Mayor Carter Harrison revoke the saloon license of Johnson's $30,000 "Cafe de Champion," 41 West Thirty-first.

The resolution drawn by Alderman Ellis Geiger, pointed out that Johnson's boasts were an insult to the womanhood and a challenge to the manhood of Chicago and recommended not only that his license be revoked, but also that the city council see that he was prosecuted on the "white slave" and all other charges pending against him.

Mayor Harrison refused to discuss the resolution further than to say that if the investigation established the fact that Johnson had violated the law he would take the action recommended by the council. The resolution was passed by a viva voce vote, while the crowded galleries cheered.

WIL SERVE TIME IN OWN COUNTRY

New York, Oct. 22.—An unusual conviction was registered on the book of the district attorney's office today. The papers as filed show that Joseph Fischhoff, a Hungarian, has been convicted in Vienna and sentenced to two and a half years in prison for a robbery committed in New York last year. The man was alleged to have got away with diamonds worth $10,000.

Fischhoff left the country before he could be apprehended but was arrested in Vienna. According to the Austro-Hungarian laws a subject of that empire cannot be extradited to another country. So the district attorney's office prepared affidavits and turned them over to the Austro-Hungarian consul general.

DRYS STOP SALE OF SWEET CIDER

Wilmington, Del., Oct. 22.—As the last word in local option, the town councils of Milford and Georgetown, two "dry villages" near here, have passed ordinances forbidding the sale of sweet cider. This unusual action was brought about by the sale of a manufactured drink called "cidre," which proved to be intoxicating. There were so many "drunks" from the so-called cider that the councils took drastic action.

The farmers of lower Delaware, who derive a large revenue at this season from their cider presses, have banded together and declare they will test the law.

NEW MOTORBOAT
LIKE NAVY CRAFT

Boston, Oct. 22.—A. P. Homer of the Boston Yacht club is building a forty-foot cruising motorboat of an unusual type. It will closely resemble a torpedo boat destroyer of the type used by the United States, including two rakish stacks and the raised turtle deck now common in the "mosquito navy." The engines are to develop a speed of 25 miles an hour.

WOMEN TO FIGHT
RACE TRACK LAW

San Francisco, Oct. 22.—By a referendum vote of its members, the San Francisco center of the California Civic League, an organization of women, decided to begin a campaign against a proposed race track amendment, legalizing pari-mutuel betting, which will be voted on at the November election.

UMBRELLA
IS EVIDENCETelltale Initials on Handle Point to Owner
As Dynamiter

Indianapolis, Oct. 22.—A battered ivory handled umbrella that had survived an explosion was produced as a government exhibit at the "dynamite conspiracy" trial yesterday. Thomas Berger of Pittsburgh, foreman of a bridge construction company, identified it as having been found after an explosion on a railroad bridge at Dayton, O., May 3, 1908.

"I notice you are examining the handle. What attracts your attention to it?" asked United States District Attorney Miller.

"I see on the handle engraved the initials 'E. C.'," replied the witness. It was the umbrella which the government charged Edward Clark, Cincinnati, carried when he attempted to blow up the bridge and which he held over the dynamite to protect it from a heavy rain. The government says Clark, after lighting the fuse, forgot the umbrella.

Clark at the opening of the present trial pleaded guilty.

The indictment alleges that Herbert S. Hokin, acting secretary of the International Association of Bridge & Structural Iron Workers, assisted Clark in preparing for the Dayton explosion.

Foremen Testify.
A dozen foremen of construction firms testified about explosions. H. G. Reynolds, Richmond, Va., told of an attempt to blow up a bridge across the Susquehanna river near Berryville, Md., on June 2, 1908, when four men ran away leaving dynamite behind.

E. J. McGivens, Chicago, described the blowing up of a construction car on an elevated road extension at Buena Park, Chicago, in March, 1908, and the dynamiting of a car of steel at Indiana Harbor, Ind., a year later.

H. W. Ashley, Pittsburgh, told of the dynamiting of a viaduct near Clairton, Pa., Oct. 21, 1906, after which pieces of a suitcase in which the bomb had been enclosed, were found scattered over the country.

Judge Albert B. Anderson, before whom the forty-five men charged with illegal transportation of explosives are being tried, made several rulings in answer to objections raised by the defense. He ruled that evidence concerning all of the one hundred explosions referred to by the government including the Los Angeles Times disaster, might be introduced as showing a motive.

He said the conspiracy already had been proven. The pleas of guilt, the part of Clark and Orlie McManigal, but the jury was to determine whether the remaining defendants were implicated.

The court stated further that the government had undertaken to show that the object of the conspiracy was much broader than the mere illegal transportation of dynamite and nitro glycerine, that the explosives were being transported to destroy property and to enforce a "reign of terror" against contractors "who ran an open shop."

As showing the scope of what evidence might be offered, the court cited decisions which grew out of a railroad employees' dispute. The original purpose of the employees, the court said, was not to obstruct the United States mail, but as an incident of the execution of the conspiracy to tie up other tracks, the mail trains were obstructed and the United States supreme court held that all the acts constituted a conspiracy to obstruct the mails.

TINKER CHOSEN AS CINCINNATI MANAGER
Chicago, Oct. 22.—Joe Tinker will not be manager of the Cubs next year. He will not even be a member of the 1913 Chicago National team. Joe Tinker will be manager of the Cincinnati Reds if he and Garry Herrmann can agree on terms and if a satisfactory trade involving Joe can be made between Cincinnati and Chicago.

Tinker's elimination as a Cub managerial possibility came to light this afternoon after the players had been given their split of the city series and exhibition money. Besides getting his share of the spoils and an extra $600 for acting as captain of the Cubs Tinker was given written permission by President Murphy to dicker with Cincinnati for the management of that club.

President Murphy of the Cubs, after asking Tinker whether he was true that he had said he wouldn't take the job of Cub manager, and being assured by Tinker that it was, gave Joe the permission to seek the Cincinnati job.

Non-Commissioned Police Officer. City Policeman. Non-Commissioned Police Officer.

Every policeman in Budapest is a gentleman, said a distinguished foreigner, visiting in America a short time ago who had had experience with the police of many lands. The recent annual report of the Budapest-Hungarian police force stated that on the whole the force has discharged their duties with honor, discretion and efficiency. And nearly all who have seen the Budapest policemen at work—country folks, natives and foreigners alike—agree that generally speaking the man who is attired in this gorgeous uniform performs as many difficult tasks as satisfactorily as possible a non-commissioned police in service uniform, also a non-commissioned officer in dress uniform and a city policeman in dress uniform. The Budapest policemen have to do their school of recruits before they do active duty.
